So every time the phone rings, the dial tone is the Best on the net plan number instead of the Bell one. Now I just have to tap my BOC (Best on the net number) to get my call-back and then redirect back to the caller. Useful link Best on the net plans and best back door A: After an apparent "back door" at Telus got shut down, I got back to using Google Voice. I made the new number silent so that I could hear when the caller called. Google voice now supports BBM and calls my BBM which is super convenient. The free part is my local number. But I have a google voice free number for roaming in the USA and Canada. I can make unlimited calls with this and it is pretty cheap. You will have to get the Google Voice app from the play store (5$) and then from the google website you need to sign up for google voice. You need to create a google voice number for out of country. So you call in and say you are from out of country and they give you a code to use when you make the out of country call. The tool also helps you save the drawing into the application's panel and load it in your future projects. A few configuration parameters are hidden under the hood for helping you keep the program on top of other windows and draw using the left mouse button or 'Shift' key and mouse movement. Tests have pointed out that Draw-On-Screen carries out a task quickly and without errors. It is not a resource hog so you can keep it running in the background without having to worry that it burdens the overall performance of your computer. Final remarks All things considered, Draw-On-Screen accommodates basic features under its hood for helping you draw freely on your screen, and is suitable especially for less experienced users. There's no support for advanced parameters so you cannot choose between several brush types, make use of hotkeys for enabling and disabling the drawing mode, and insert
