

when I tried to copy a new Win7 robocopy.exe, I got this: To continue copying, a new registration on the service is required. If you are not registered on the site as a user, you can register, but in doing so, you may create several smaller accounts. To do this, you will need to specify your email address, while I recommend using the mailbox with the name "admin@kotlin.ru", because in the future, it will be able to act as the name of your account. I also recommend that you specify an email address like admin@kompot.net (without @) - this will help you avoid problems with the fact that your domain will be used for other projects.

1. Go to the Start menu → Control Panel → Network and Sharing Center → Network → Wireless Network (Wi-Fi) Management → Wireless Network Manager.
2. Click on the wireless icon located to the left of the central lock at the bottom of the window.
4. Select a Wi-Fi network name from the list and click the Connect button.
5. Specify the username and password of the Wi-Fi network. Then you will need to connect two networks at once - wireless and, as a bonus, on-screen - in order to enjoy all the benefits of collaboration - access the Internet through a local network, as well as share and work with remote files and folders.

For Windows 7 → Control Panels → Network and Internet → Service Center - click on the name of the network > Connect to a network, and then - on the Connection button.

6. Select the wireless network corresponding to the default: 7. Then repeat the steps for the on-screen Wi-fi network. 8. Select software to combine two networks into one (you can only combine a local network card, while on Wi-Max a network device can also work as an Internet connection) - here you also need to select our network, specify the password for the WiMax local network user and then select the Wi-Desktop network in order to unite all devices under one user account. 9. Edit the connection settings, specify the accounts: select Wi-Wi.cdrom and put a dot for the username that is on the current network, but is not used by default - for example, if you use Microsoft Outlook, then enter the Outlook username in this field in a Microsoft service.
