Homepage. Drivers; Help & Support; I want to update drivers for Kyocera FS-1118MFP, in a move to keep consumers informed, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is requiring companies to list a medication's side effects on the drug label. However, the agency left the fine print of the document to be written by the manufacturer, leaving little or no details of its impacts. Mountain View, California-based pharmaceutical giant Gilead Sciences Inc. said Tuesday it has shipped the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) massive package of documents to inform the agency of the effects of its hepatitis C (HCV) medication approved in December. The package has been sent via express mail, which will take a few days to reach the agency, the company added. On Jan. 3, the FDA officially approved a new HCV treatment from Gilead, which is made up of two drugs, InnoRx Inc.'s ledipasvir and Harvoni XL by AbbVie Inc. The agency said Gilead sent the package that includes information on the product's manufacturing, efficacy and safety. A copy of the label for Harvoni was posted on the FDA's website. If the agency's past record is any indication, most of the details of the drug's post-
